Stevenson Set For Assault On Atlantic States

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Adlai Stevenson, mapping strategy on the basis of reports from his first campaign swing, prepared today to an assault on the Atlantic Seaboard, battling for four states that are considered "doubtful" in this election.

AFL Convention Opens; Group May Back Adlai

Ike, Stevenson Both To Address Meeting; Taft Law Denounced

NEW YORK (AP) — Delegates to the 71st annual AFL Convention gathered today to hear an opening-day address by President William Green, who has indicated the group will endorse Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson for president.

Decision on a presidential choice is expected to be made a week from tomorrow after the convention has heard addresses by Stevenson and his Republican opponent, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. The general will talk Wednesday, and Stevenson next Monday.

Represent 8 Million Members

The 752 convention delegates represent some eight million AFL members.

The AFL's Executive Council filed a report last night in which it denounced the Taft-Hartley Act as a "dismal failure" and called the wage-price control program unfair to labor.

Green made it clear at pre-convention news conference that if the delegates decide on a presidential choice it will be largely — if not entirely — based on the candidates' views and their party platforms regarding the Taft-Hartley Act.

Adlai Favors Repeal

Stevenson and the Democratic platform advocate repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, and a new labor relations act. Eisenhower is against repeal, but has recommended revisions to improve the law without changing its "basic principles."

"This is bound to have an effect on the delegates," Green said. He added that they were waiting to "see what Eisenhower has to say."

If the AFL Convention formally endorses either candidate, it will be the first time in AFL history. The AFL in 1924 backed the late Sen. Robert M. La Follette, the Progressive candidate. But the action was taken by a special committee — not by a convention as a whole.

Mangled Body Is Reported Identified

Identification of a mangled body of a man, found by a passing train two miles west of Salem Friday afternoon beside the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks, was nearer to solution, Sebring police said today.

Relatives reportedly have identified the man, who was judged to be between 50 and 55 years old and weighing about 155 pounds. Positive identification must await a fingerprint report from the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Capt. Paul Gednetz of the Sebring police department took the fingerprints from the body Friday evening as Mahoning and Columbiana county authorities probed the case.

The only real clues are a partially amputated or deformed little left finger and a leg scar. Only a small portion of clothing was uncovered and no papers were found on the body.

The body has been moved to the Moosman-Vogt funeral home in Sebring.

didate opens his second major drive next Thursday.

His line of march takes him through Connecticut, into Massachusetts, New York, Maryland and Virginia.

Of the five, his managers consider New York "reasonably safe." They expect a grim fight in the others. The Democrats lost Maryland in 1948, possibly because of votes siphoned off by Henry Wallace's Progressive party. Political analysts in Connecticut believe the growth of industry there may have tipped the balance to the Democrats this time.

One of the top Virginia political leaders told this correspondent, before the Republican convention: "If the Republicans nominate Eisenhower, and the Democrats fumble the ball here, this state is going Republican this year."

Although the schedule calls for a major speech in Springfield, Mass., Friday, Stevenson is reserving his big effort there for later in the campaign.

However, he will travel there by automobile, "klaxon stopping" in a number of Massachusetts cities en route.

Part of his purpose of this swing, as it was during the Western trip, will be simply to let people see him, make himself known, and soften up the territory for his bigger efforts later.

For that reason, his managers say, he did not attempt — except in a few of his appearances — to hammer the basic issues very hard in the West. A fast man with a phrase, Stevenson devoted at least half his time in the "whistle stops" between San Francisco and Los Angeles for example, simply to amusing his audience with flicking a satirical whip at the Republicans.

The reactions to that were not all good. Bystanders told correspondents on the tour he sounded "a little too smart," and said, in Kasson, Minn., "he impresses me as being a smoothie."

Apparently some of these reactions have come back to Stevenson, for he said in Albuquerque, "I don't look on this campaign as a funeral — at least not as my funeral. I intend to go on talking as I have been."

It was obvious, everywhere on the trip, that what the people want is a lambasting, rip-roaring, "give 'em-hell" type of approach. Whenever he approached, or seemed to approach, this kind of reference, there were violent crowd reactions.

So far, Stevenson has not permitted much heat or aggravation to crimson his usually stately language. He came near it in Denver when he said he was sorry his GOP opponent, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, seemed to infer that he (Stevenson) could not cope with any corruption in government. "I shall not repay him in kind," he said.

And in Albuquerque, there was real feeling in his voice when he said, "This is untrue. This is mischievous. This is unworthy of people who aspire to lead us." He was referring to Republicans claims that American diplomatic leaders "gave away" Poland and China.

Stevenson says he "found the Democratic party unified and enthusiastic" everywhere along his Western trip.

In New York, Stevenson will address the American Federation of Labor Convention and he is expected to amplify his views on the Taft-Hartley Act, first enunciated at Detroit on Labor Day. He will speak again on farm policy at Ft. Dodge, Ia., Oct. 4.

Tonight, a half-hour program, will be televised and broadcast nationally at 9:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

The appointment of Victor A. Sholis, Louisville, Ky., radio executive to be executive assistant to Campaign Manager Wilson Wyatt also was announced yesterday.

Stevenson has a conference scheduled today with Waters Davis of League City, Tex., member of the National Association of Soil Conservation. At luncheon, the governor's guests include Jacob Balenstein, of Baltimore, chairman of the American Jewish Committee, and Dwight Palmer, chairman of the board of the General Cable Corp. and treasurer of the Democratic National Committee.

Ike To Answer Adlai's Satire Of Republicans

General Believes Campaign Is Not A Laughing Matter

Aboard Eisenhower Special, En Route Indiana (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower comes up today with his first answer to the satire directed at the Republicans by Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois.

The answer, in the words of Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire, top Eisenhower adviser, is: "The campaign to elect the next president of the United States is no laughing matter, to be handled lightly with quips and puns."

Eisenhower, the Republican nominee, thus sought to turn against Stevenson the tone with which the Democratic candidate pointedly has jabbed at the general and the party back of him.

Plans Whistle Stop

In a series of whistle stop appearances in Indiana, the general prepared to pose political issues and inquire of his listeners if any of these is "a laughing matter."

The train's first scheduled stop was Ft. Wayne, Ind. Adams said in a statement that Eisenhower himself "will continue to present honestly, simply but thoroughly to the American people the issues and problems that confront them at these critical times."

This presentation was expected to take the form, in the 12-day, Turn To IKE, Page 16

Sabres Down 9 MIG Fighters

Fighter-Bombers Hit Red Industrial City

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — U. S. Sabre jet pilots today reported they shot down nine Russian-made MIG 15 jets, probably destroyed another and damaged two in air battles over North Korea.

The Air Force also announced that Allied fighter-bombers hurled a crushing aerial blow at the Red industrial complex at Sinuiju, near the Manchurian border. Targets included an oxygen plant, an alcohol distillery and a rope factory.

The jet battle pitted an unannounced number of Sabres against more than 80 MIGs.

The new figures raise the Fifth Air Force's reported total of MIG's destroyed in September to 40 with four claims pending. The record for a month is 44, set last April.

The fighter-bomber attack was made within sight of the big Red airfields at Antung, just across the Yalu River from Sinuiju. The air force said it drew hordes of Communist interceptors into action.

The latest attack is one of a series of trip-hammer aerial blows against targets right up to the doorstep of Manchuria.

U. S. Navy planes Sunday paid a return visit to Hoeryang, less than two miles from Manchuria, and turned several warehouses and a power station into smoking ruins. The fighter-bombers from the carriers Princeton and Bon Homme Richard had hit the area — only 40 miles from Soviet Siberia — in a dawn raid Saturday.

Night-flying B26 bomber pilots maintained the pressure on the Communist war machine with a series of attacks on the North Korean highway net last night. Pilots reported 120 vehicles destroyed, the highest total in five months.

In the only ground fighting of any size across the 155-mile battlefield Sunday, South Korean infantrymen failed in a savage attempt to throw Chinese Reds off Finger Ridge on the Central Front.

The South Koreans smashed up the slopes with bare bayonets and flame throwers and grabbed the crest of the hill about 6 a. m. The Chinese lashed back with a counterattack several hours later and regained the position.

Lewis, Policy Committee Set Strategy Huddle

Coal Miners Contract Expires Saturday; Strike May Be Called

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a possible coal strike only a week off, John L. Lewis huddles with his 200-man Policy Committee today to map negotiating strategy.

The contract between the United Mine Workers union and the Northern mine owners expires on Saturday. Since that is not a working day, the first opportunity for the miners to stay away from work would be next Monday.

Lewis' union members traditionally won't work without a contract. However, agreements with Southern soft coal operators and with the Pennsylvania anthracite, or hard coal, owners extend until Sept. 30.

The UMW Policy Committee, due to meet with Lewis in mid-afternoon, is the group Lewis usually consults when major union decisions are to be made. It always ratifies contracts before their terms are made generally known. It also helps draft strike plans.

John Busarello of Pittsburgh, head of the union's District No. 5, said over the week end he knew of no soft coal settlement in the works, but felt the calling together Turn To LEWIS, Page 16

MALIK'S FINAL DEFEAT? — Jacob A. Malik, Russia's delegate to the United Nations, glumly watches as Britain's John Coulson, center, and Warren Austin, of the United States, vote before the Security Council to debate the membership applications of Japan, Libya, Laos, Cambodia, and Viet-Nam. Malik, who will return to Moscow in the near future, had insisted that the applications of the five states be referred to the council's committee on membership. Malik was voted down 8 to 1, with two abstentions.

Three-Day Fall Festival Opens In Salem Thursday With Parade

A revival of the popular, old-time festival idea will be inherent in the annual Fall Festival which will be presented here Thursday, Friday and Saturday under the sponsorship of the local American Legion. The program will include a parade, demonstrations of fire-fighting equipment, bands, concessions and exhibits, all of which will make this year's festival one of the best in years. Fifty per cent of the proceeds will be donated to the Swimming Pool Fund.

Cash prizes will be offered for the best entry in several categories — senior bands, high school or junior bands, drum and bugle corps, drill units, floats and fire equipment. Awards also will be made for the largest marching unit and for the fire-equipment group coming the longest distance.

Bands taking part will include those of Fairmount Children's Home of Alliance, Salem High School and the local American Legion (Quaker City band). Fire-fighting equipment from the various cities and villages around the area will be shown in action.

Judging of fire equipment will be headed by Vincent Malloy, former chief of the Salem fire department, and William Rosche, Canton fire chief. Qualified judges have been secured to weigh the merits of musical units, drill and marching teams.

The parade, starting at 7:30 p. m., will launch the festivities Thursday. It will form at 6:45 p. m. at the corner of Vine Ave. and E. Third St., going south on Vine to E. State St., west on State to Ellsworth Ave. and disbanding south of E. Pershing St.

Each unit will be given a number for position in the parade. The Alliance fire department Thursday evening will demonstrate a 65-foot, one-man operated hydraulic ladder at the corner of S. Broadway and E. State. A demonstration of an 85-foot hydraulic ladder handled by one man will be given Saturday evening by the Martins Ferry fire department.

Also displaying fire equipment will be units from East Palestine (two trucks), Homeworth, Sebring, Damascus, Berlin Center, Mannweiller Fire Equipment Co. of Massillon, North Lima, Boardman, Columbiana, Leontonia, Hanoverton, Lisbon, Greenford and Ellsworth.

3 Bank Robbers Still At Large

Big Pennsylvania Manhunt Continues

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Without a single positive clue for nearly 72 hours, police officials clung stubbornly today to the belief that three fugitive bank robbers, target of Pennsylvania's greatest manhunt in years, still might be holed up somewhere near this northeastern industrial city.

They acknowledged, however, a growing possibility that the men had slipped away.

State police, FBI men and local officers, all heavily armed, were cautiously on the lookout for the three who have been described officially as "desperate and vicious." Roadblocks and patrols covered main and rural roads over an area hundreds of miles square.

"There is nothing to indicate the fugitives have gotten out of this area," said Arthur Cornelius agent-in-charge of the Philadelphia FBI office.

The fugitives are Joseph Nolen, 26, and his brother Ballard, 22, both of Harlan County, Ky., and Elmer Schuer, 21, of Chicago. All were serving long terms for bank robbery when they fled the Federal Penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., early Wednesday.

Since then they have stolen at least four cars; knifed one man; looted a West Reading, Pa., sporting goods store of six shotguns and a quantity of ammunition; held a family of seven captive for 19 hours while they ate and rested, and obtained $240 in the holdup of a roadside diner at Hamburg, Pa.

Highway Patrol Renews Drive On Offenders

8 Traffic Accidents Reported In Area During Weekend

In a renewed campaign against traffic violators, Salem state highway patrolmen arrested 40 motorists while patrolling district roads over the weekend.

Several arrests resulted from eight traffic accidents which occurred Saturday and Sunday.

The crackdown on errant motorists came as Cpl. Edward Mallory, officer in charge of the Salem patrol barracks, explained that warnings to drivers don't seem to do any good. "A fine in court not only hurts their pocketbook but adds emphasis to the lesson that traffic rules are made for everyone's safety and are not made to be broken."

Five of the weekend accidents resulted in injuries to at least 12 persons.

Arrested as the result of accidents were:

John R. Grimes, 25, of Lisbon, reckless operation, $15 bond, forfeited.

Donald E. Baxter, 24, of Cleveland, reckless, fined $25 and costs.

George Crawford, 29, of Washington County, Pa., failure to give proper signal, $10 and costs.

Allen C. Blue, 27, of Cleveland, reckless, $20 and costs, and $25 and costs for improper registration of a motor vehicle.

Jacob Kaderman, 21, of Lisbon, failure to stop in the assured clear distance, $10 and costs.

Bertha Vizmar of Weirton, W. Va., making an improper turn, $10 and costs.

Other arrests disposed of: John Sakely of Columbiana, passing school bus, $25 and costs.

Harold Borton, 28, of Salem, operating unsafe equipment, $15 and costs.

Donald Hoffmaster, East Palestine, $20 and costs.

Fred Jones of Cleveland, John Milkovitz, Bath, Pa., Nicholas Kor-dick of McKees Rocks, Pa., John Tokarz of Detroit, Junior Russell of Akron, Robert Douthitt of Pittsburgh, James Elmer Morrison, 26, of Warren, Zaiton Andrew Perhacs, 22, of Cleveland, all charged with passing at the crest of a hill, $10 and costs each.

Frank Repasi of Cleveland, passing at an intersection, $5 and costs.

Fred Zeidler of Lebanon, Ore., passing at intersection, $10 bond, forfeited.

Frenzie Harlan of Wheeling, stop sign violation, $10 bond, forfeited.

Troy Collett of Weirton, W. Va., stop light violation, $5 and costs.

Secret Services Held By Church

Rome Police Close Meeting Place

ROME (AP) — Members of the Protestant Church of Christ held secret services here in Catholic Rome yesterday after police blocked their regular meeting place and ordered worshippers away.

Cline R. Paden of Brownfield, Tex., who heads the small Protestant group here, said the sect held its services at a member's home. He refused to reveal the member's name or address, saying "it might hurt him."

An informed Italian source said the crackdown was due to the group's evangelical activities — about 1,000 conversions since World War II — in Catholic Italy.

Paden protested to the Interior Ministry that the interference with the service violated guarantees in the Italian Constitution of religious liberty, freedom of assembly and freedom of thought. A ministry official replied that the Church of Christ did not have government permission necessary to hold services, a requirement that members of the sect said was enacted during Mussolini's Fascist regime.

Paden said he had been trying for three years, without success, to get official recognition of his church.

Other Protestant denominations, including Methodists and Baptists, have experienced no such difficulties. The Church of Christ, which operates 22 churches and an orphanage in Italy, is supported largely by contributions from Texas.

Paden announced Saturday that his group's church at Alessandria was shuttered last Sunday, the Rome church had been ordered closed and the same action against the group's other churches had been threatened. The church's orphanage at Frascati was closed in 1949 during earlier agitation against its activities but was allowed to reopen after Texas members of the U. S. Congress protested to the State Department.

Defying the closure order here, Paden opened the doors two hours earlier than usual yesterday morning in the stone villa he uses for a church, within sight of Vatican City and Roman Catholicism's first church, St. Peter's Cathedral.

Two policemen promptly took stations at the stairs leading to the bare second-story meeting room. A red riot jeep and some 20 plainclothesmen backed up the blockade.

An American and an Italian passerby attempting to take pictures of the activity were carried off to a police station and held for two hours. Four other Americans, including a reporter; a Canadian, a German and 35 or so Italian worshippers were stopped from entering the church and ordered away.

There was no disorder, however.

Wanger, Joan Bennett Reconciliation Seen

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Film producer Walter Wanger is out of jail, his actress wife Joan Bennett is back in town and there is a hint of reconciliation in the air.

Miss Bennett arrived by plane from Portland, Ore., and went to her Holmby Hills residence yesterday, where she was met by Wanger.

A butler told a reporter yesterday: "They have left strict orders that they are not to be disturbed by callers or by telephone."

It was the first meeting of the couple since Wanger was sent to the county jail on his conviction of assault with a deadly weapon in the shooting of Miss Bennett's agent, Jennings Lang. Wanger was released Saturday.

Indian Congress Calls For World Disarmament

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's All-India Congress party has called for the United States, Britain and France to meet with Russia and Communist China to settle East-West differences and start world disarmament.

The ruling party's policy-making Congress Committee, meeting at Indore yesterday, unanimously approved a resolution urging the Big Five conference. The proposal reportedly was drafted by Nehru.

Schacht To Prepare Program For Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — German financial expert Hjalmar Schacht left for home last night to prepare an economic new deal for Iran, but he bluntly told the Iranians they were "lazy" and would have to work harder to get on their feet.

Schacht, whose financial wizardry backed Hitler's rise to power, said poverty stricken Iran must increase its productive labor and encourage private enterprise. Speaking with reporters at Tehran airport he added that Iran "should increase insurance companies, cooperative companies, banking companies and get rid of (government) monopolies."

The German expert said he would prepare a full report of reforms to aid the economic-stricken country.

Margaret Truman Plans To Continue For NBC

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Margaret Truman, here for a guest appearance on Jimmy Durante's television show next Saturday, went night-clubbing last night with producer Henry Wilson.

Long-time friends, they appeared at Ciro's.

The President's daughter arrived yesterday from New York.

Asked what her plans are when her father leaves office next January, she replied, "They're all taken care of. I've been under contract to NBC for two years and the contract has been renewed. Of course, I'll continue to live in New York."

Same Story For 50 Years...

LET PEOPLE SEE YOUR MERCHANDISE

Old? Sure the plan is old.

Drive through the country and you'll find country merchants still displaying merchandise on their porches, or in front of their stores where passers-by can see it, just as they've been doing for 50 years—just as your grandfather or your uncle did fifty years ago. In the earlier days some of the more aggressive ones loaded a wagon full of merchandise and took it out to the people who lived in far-away places. That wasn't a new idea, either. There were vendors doing this back in the days of the early Romans.

Man Wanted In 2 Killings Surrenders

JASPER, Ala. (AP) — A 30-year-old accused bootlegger whose quiet surrender ended a bustling manhunt is being held in the slaying of two officers.

Horace Bradberry was hustled off to jail at Birmingham when he gave up yesterday.

A posse of more than 300 officers and volunteers had sealed off the thick woods into which Bradberry fled after the killings. Two airplanes aided the posse.

Bradberry placed himself in the hands of Coroner Porter White only 30 minutes before the ring of searchers planned to close in upon him.

White said Bradberry admitted shooting Deputies Herman Treece, 45, and Frank Harbison, 27-year-old nephew of Sheriff Charles Harbison of Walker County.

The coroner said he expected that murder charges would be filed against Bradberry today.

The officers had gone to Bradberry's home three miles north of Jasper in this dry county to search for illegal liquor.

Scientists Say New Volcano On Decline

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Scientists back from their first aerial view of the world's newest volcano said today the belching mountain on an island off Mexico's West Coast already is on the decline.

Dr. Robert S. Dietz of the Naval Electronics Lab here said the volcano on uninhabited Benedicto Island in Mexico's Revillagigedo Group probably had its big blow-off when it started erupting six weeks ago.

While the volcano still belches clouds of smoke and yellow ash every 20 minutes, Dietz said gas odors from the 1,050-foot ash cone indicate the volcano is declining.

2 Badly Hurt When Trains Hit Head-On

MATTAWA, Ont. (AP) — Two Canadian Pacific passenger trains collided head-on in a fog here last night but only two persons, a fireman and an engineer, were seriously injured.

Two others were hurt less seriously and about 100 passengers suffered minor cuts and bruises.

Express cars at the head ends of the trains absorbed much of the shock, accounting for the low casualties. No immediate cause was given for the wreck.

Roving Reports By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Hepcats today agree that Louis Armstrong has only one rival as a trumpet player—and he's out of this world.

He's an angel named Gabriel, and some Armstrong fans say:

"If Satchmo can take his horn with him when he goes, he'll blow some notes even Old Gabe never heard."

At 52, "Satchmo"—a contraction of satchel mouth—shows no interest in making that long vertical journey just to join Gabriel in a jam session. He is a living symbol of the whole jazz age, and he's still having the time of his life.

The bugle he started with long ago has turned into a golden horn—the 15 cents he got for his first night's playing has been followed by many a $15,000 week. And he enjoyed his old honky-tonk days as much as his later concerts in famous Carnegie Hall. Probably even more.

"I got peace of mind," he said. "I'm able to do my work, get my pay, and eat—and all I want to do is keep on going."

"I been blowing that horn 39 years and I never looked back once. You can live on this earth without pouting all the time."

"I bet I made more than a million dollars, but I don't know. I just blow that horn and let my manager count the money. When a man's in love, what else can he want?"

Louis, who is also called "Pops," is in love with what he is doing, and his remark about making a million dollars is the understatement of the year. Besides his band income, Armstrong figures he has made some 2,500 recordings—"more than any musician alive."

Wrapping a towel around his whale-rivalling abdomen—he weighs nearly one-eighth of a ton now—he sat down in his theater dressing room and recalled how as a skinny boy of 13 he blew chow call on his bugle in a Negro waifs' home in New Orleans.

"Sometimes, just for fun, I'd hold off a few minutes," he said, "and the kids'd holler, 'Come on, satchel mouth, blow that horn. We want to scarf.' They meant they were hungry."

At 15 he picked up a trumpet in a honky-tonk band, and he never really has put it down. In those days when a jazz artist really got in the groove, he started "moppin' the brow," and the more handkerchiefs he had to mop the perspiration with the more prosperous he was.

Today Satchmo is the laundryman's best friend—he uses 60 to 70 handkerchiefs on a busy day, and he never has to mop his brow with the same one twice in a row. To him that is the great luxury of his success.

Satchmo said a band, like an army, travels on its stomach. "Bad stomachs and not enough sleep have ruined more good bands than bad music," he said. His solicitude for his own vast stomach has a maternal quality, and he can fall asleep "even with the dentist drilling on my teeth."

Armstrong says there are only two things that make a fine musician—ability and living.

"We can all take the book and go 'do-re-me,'" he said, "but you got to find the other notes for yourself, and that takes time. You got to live. It takes years.

"The higher I go on that trumpet the lower I think, so's I won't split a high note. I look up with my eyes, but I think low."

Satchmo soon is leaving for his fifth tour of Europe, where, if anything, he is even more popular than in his homeland. On a previous visit to Rome, Satchmo, who is a Baptist, had an audience with the Pope while wearing his favorite good luck charm around his neck—a gold six-pointed star, a Jewish emblem.

"What's wrong with that?" Satchmo demanded, when friends joked about it afterward. "The Pope didn't mind."

Satchmo is proud of his audience with the Pope, and of one other thing:

"I got credit on Broadway."

Taft To Make First Speech For Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first of several nationwide broadcasts by Sen. Robert A. Taft on behalf of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will be made at 9 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, Wednesday over NBC.

Arthur E. Summerfield, Republican national chairman, said Taft's opening campaign speech for the party's presidential nominee will be entitled "Progress Through Liberty" and will originate at a rally in Springfield, O.

Taft, replying to a question about his campaign plans during a CBS television show last night, said:

"I expect to be out three or four days every week during the six weeks of the campaign. I suppose we'll cover 15 or 16 states."

Bones Of German Kings Reburied In Castle

HECHINGEN, Germany (AP)—The bones of Frederick the Great and his father, Frederick Wilhelm I, rested in the 1,000-year-old hilltop Hohenzollern Castle here today after seven years of wandering.

Members of the old imperial family brought the caskets of the two great Prussian kings from Marburg for reburial yesterday. The hallowed national relics will remain here, the family said, until "Germany will again be reunited in freedom."

The family hopes to return the bodies eventually to their former resting places at Potsdam, now in Soviet East Germany. They were removed from there during World War II and hidden in a salt mine in Saxony. The American Army later moved them to Elizabeth's Church in Marburg.

OPPOSES MCCARTHY. Thomas E. Fairchild (above), former Wisconsin state attorney general, won the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senator in Wisconsin. He will oppose Sen. Joseph McCarthy who polled more than half a million votes in gaining the Republican nomination.

Hotel Owners Urge Suicides Elsewhere

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—"If there is any reason why you must end your life," the Formosa Hotel Owners Association said in a public statement, "it's always better to do so outside hotels."

"Suicides in hotels not only incur the managements in considerable expense but also cause them great mental distress," the statement concluded.

A sycamore tree grew around a water pipe in Freeport, Fla., and the faucet protrudes from the side, forming a living water fountain.

Don't Let Them Take It Away

In politics, no holds are barred. The spenders will bawl "Don't let them take it away!"
from now until November without specifying
what would be taken away.

But beginning with the release of that sensational study by the Bureau of Labor Statistics which showed that typical urban families
are living $400 a year beyond their incomes
Americans are beginning to ask questions.

A pointed warning against gulping the credo that Americans "never had it so good" has been made by Herbert J. Miller, executive director of the Tax Foundation in an address to the Governmental Research Association.

Miller explained that statistics by themselves cannot show how well off an individual or a family may be. That is a matter for individual determination. For example, in a family where the wife has gone to work there may be more income than there was before but if she went to work to offset the decline of buying power in her husband's income there has been no net improvement in the couple's economic position.

Six million rural Americans have moved to urban areas since 1939. This is reflected in income statistics. But it does not mean there has been improvement in the individual status of the persons involved. Taxes wipe out wage increases. Living costs wipe out higher dollar income etc.

If you are better off, you too can bawl,
"Don't let them take it away." If you have no zest or appetite for baloney dollars, you can always ask, "Don't let them take what away?"

Wisconsin's Decision

When you think about it, Wisconsin Republicans had to renominate Sen. McCarthy.
He was under attack by "furriners" over an issue of patriotism.

So the Wisconsin Republicans gave him another nomination, and Wisconsin probably will give him another election in November. The Tydings-Benton line of attack against McCarthy has strengthened McCarthy with his own people.

They have been the first to see what is becoming more widely visible as time goes on—that Joe McCarthy may have been a plumber in a watch repair shop but was making an honest effort to find out what time it was in relation to the Communist conspiracy.

They have been among the first to see that his critics have been attacking him for his awkwardness, in order to divert attention from his purpose. History may show that Joe McCarthy was far from an ideal instrument for probing into the Communist conspiracy. But history is not likely to show there was no conspiracy to probe into—not after the Alger Hiss case.

Wisconsin Republicans are willing to send McCarthy back to Washington to finish what he has started, no matter how awkwardly. That is, after all, their business, not the business of any or all of the whitewashers of the Washington "mess".

Watch That Splitter

In New York state, where the lefties are trying out the tricks they hope to perform later for a larger audience, the Liberal party is running its own senatorial candidate this year against a Democrat and a Republican.

This assures election of a Republican. The Liberal party is the less leftist relic of the American Labor party rigged by Franklin D.
Roosevelt in 1934 to snare anti-Republicans who were too far left to be Democrats. It draws its votes from dissident Democrats.

The moral is the splitting of splinters.
In 1934, a Liberal party split away from the American Labor party, which had been taken over by Communists. In 1949, the American Labor party plumped for Henry Wallace.
That gave Gov. Dewey a shoo-in for New York's electoral votes. This year, the American Labor party is backing a leftist named Hallinan for president. All these votes will be drawn for Democrats to teach them they must appease
the radicals or be ruined.

Col. McCormick is talking about doing the same thing with the rightist vote with something to be known as an American party.
There is no place in the United States for splinter parties which split up votes so everything can be run by manipulators who know how to play the game.

There were 177,790 saloons, 7090 breweries,
and 236 distilleries in the United States before the Prohibition era.

Oscar Wilde called Sarah Bernhardt "Divine Sarah" years before he met her. This popular title clung to her all of her life.

The chances are you would be popular with more people if they were more popular with you.

Justice Department

By PETER EDSON

Sets Out On Real Cleanup Of Its Slate

WASHINGTON
Department of Justice is again
renewed. Not because of its scandals,
but because of the legitimate news
it has coming up on the prosecution of government cases that have long been dormant.

Time, was, during the 1930's and the war years, when Washington
reporters had to keep a sharp eye
on Department of Justice and cover it regularly. Then, with the advent of Tom Clark as attorney general in 1945, the lid of censorship was clamped on. The only news that ever came out of the place was what was handed out in press releases.

Assistant attorneys general and division chiefs were forbidden to talk to the press and even to Congress. The attorney general became the only authorized spokesman for what was supposed to be the government's chief law enforcement agency.

It was in this period when reporters couldn't find out what was going on inside the department
that all the mess now being uncovered was cooked up.

Public hearings later this month
by the House judiciary investigating subcommittee under Rep.
Frank Chief of Kentucky are expected to throw much new light on what happened in Department of Justice during the blackout years of 1946-51.

But the real news that is again making the Department a regular port of call for reporters will be in the actions about to be taken by the new attorney general, the former judge and ex-congressman, James Patrick McGranery of Pen-sylvania.

WHEN MCGRANERY was first named to the job last April, there were various Republicans like Senator Ferguson of Michigan and Representative Velde of Illinois who charged he would do another whitewash job. But it hasn't worked out that way at all.

The old practice in the Department of Justice during the last half-dozen years seemed to be to bring few cases to trial that were not sure to win decisions for the government. Too many cases seemed to be settled out of court. The new practice appears to be pretty much the opposite. Everything is going to be brought to trial.

A new solicitor-general, replacing Philip B. Perlman, will be named before the new Supreme Court term begins in October.
Among the more important matters before the court will be a new report on the tideland litigation

from Special Master Will Davis,
and the school segregation cases.

There will be new grand jury investigations in the District of Columbia, probably leading to indictments of some of the former top officials in Bureau of Internal Revenue. Various income tax fraud cases will also be brought to trial.

One of Attorney General Mc-Granery's first acts after taking over his new job was to ask all Department of Justice divisions and all U.S. district attorneys for lists of cases pending in their files.
These lists have been carefully gone over. Many cases that have been held up for no good reason will be set for trial.

ANOTHER aspect of this review
was to get the list of names of attorneys appearing for clients in government cases.

It shows the names of many congressmen, ex-congressmen and ex-government attorneys who may be using their official positions and official information they figuratively threw out their government office windows, then went on the sidewalks and picked up for private gain. All these connections are to be exposed in an effort to end racketeering in government.

This brings up one of Attorney General McGranery's pet projects, which is to revise and strengthen the so-called "conflict-of-interest
law." This law goes back to 1885.
It was intended to prevent government employees from taking part in actions against the government,
where they would serve two interests.

At the time of passage, this law
was interpreted as meaning that no congressman-lawyer would ever be barred from practicing law in a federal court. This is true, so long as there is no conflict of interest.

A bill to strengthen this law will be drawn up and presented to the new Congress in a further effort to clean up the administration of justice in government cases.

Along a similar line, U.S. district
attorneys have been asked to report on all their outside-government, private law practice. There is some thought of trying to get them more pay, so they won't have to serve two masters.

While all this is going on, Department of Justice practices and procedures are being reorganized to make the place as unlike what it used to be as is possible.

Golden Nugget Of Truth

By RAYMOND MOLEY

I think it was Henry Mencken
who said that capacity to make a speech should no more be taken as a means of judging a person's capacity to hold public office than ability to play the fiddle. In short,
that oratory and music are both arts which could be mastered by people who are utterly unsuited to the task of governing. There is a great deal of truth in this.

It needs to be pointed out with special emphasis this year, when television has added another element of the dramatic art to the requirements of a candidate. If we go on like this, candidates will be required to show proficiency in still other arts, such as dancing.
And the fate of nations may be determined by someone's ability to do the rumba. In fact, some governors and congressmen have been elected for reasons no more valid than that. And the welfare of the commonwealth was certainly not promoted by their service
in office.

I can discern in some of the writing of my fellow craftsmen in the field of journalism a tendency to forget the golden nugget of truth in Mencken's comment. The relative claims on the electorate of Eisenhower and Stevenson seem to be weighed by some in scales
intended for literary and drama criticism rather than political and governmental science.

If that be the measure by which the voter can be led to make his decision in November, then may Providence have mercy on this republic. For as an oratorical competent or a literary competitor, the cognoscenti seem to be leaning to the wordsmithy and jokes of the governor of Illinois.

This was especially true of the reaction of some to the two speeches of the candidates at the pleading contest in Minnesota. As literary productions, the two speeches were hardly comparable.
Eisenhower's lacked the smoothness, the unity, coherence and emphasis of which the rhetoric books

Freedom's Defenders

The Role Of Senator Taft

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Oftimes when a candidate for the nomination for the presidency
is defeated at his party's convention
he subsides politically. Sometimes,
as in the instance of William Jennings Bryan, he remains a life-long candidate. Sometimes, as in the instance of Thomas E. Dewey,
he tries again and gets
the nomination.

Senator Taft's situation is different because he remains the leader of his party in Congress. It would take two elections to unseat him from this leadership because of senatorial seniority. It would take the elector to the Senate of an intellect
superior to Taft's to achieve his present moral position. There is no one like that running for congressional office in the Republican party in this election.

Another factor in this situation was wholly unexpected by Taft or anyone else at the time of the convention. A die-hard Taft element has appeared in the Republican party. That did not happen in 1948 when Dewey defeated Taft. Taft, himself, on holiday at Murray Bay, Quebec, was not at all conscious of the dimensions or character of this element.

A PART OF the Eisenhower
management has sought to win
Senator Taft to the idea of active campaigning. It was suggested to him that he come to the Commodore hotel in New York, during American Legion convention week, to meet General Eisenhower. Obviously, this was a set-up for a photographers' picnic, with a press conference in public and no discussion of issues, principles or the conduct of the nation in private.

Accompanying this proposal, a press blitz was arranged to give the impression that the Senator was coming to Ike at the Senator's request.

Industrial production totals are
snapping back fast from the summer slump caused by the steel
strike, vacations and abominable
weather.

Steel output is almost back to pre-strike levels. Orders for raw
steel will keep the mills busy well
into next year. Demand for most finished steel products is expected
to hold up until the end of the year at least.

The auto industry expects to
have its biggest week of the year
next week, when it plans to turn out 98,822 cars and 25,859 trucks.

Although the great post-Korean
expansion of industrial plant and
equipment is scheduled to slough
off next year, builders report contracts for heavy construction projects are still running ahead of a
year ago.

And they look for public construction—schools, roads, hospitals
and the like—to step up as the
industrial expansion boom tapers
off.

Many home builders concede that
their construction boom—greatest
in history—is past its prime. Home
building this year probably will
drop below 1,200,000, and the federal reserve will be required by law to drop its curbs on easy terms
of home mortgages. Many expect
the curbs to be dropped later this month.

But many home builders are still confident that for several years to come the demand for
homes will keep building totals at
better than 800,000 new homes a
year.

Orders for capital goods—tools
and machinery, airplanes and rail-

suggestion, with various stories that lacked even interesting imagination. I was told by an unusually responsible man one night during that week that Taft was actually in New York for this conference with Eisenhower. I knew that at the moment he was at Murray Bay.

Senator Taft will make two or three speeches, as he is committed to campaign for some of his colleagues in the Senate who are running this year. As a Republican who believes in party loyalty, and recognizing that the Republican party has showered honors upon his father, himself and other members of his family, he will support the party's candidate.

If that is not sufficient, then the Eisenhower management needs to deal with Senator Taft on the high level of ideas and purposes and their implementation. In other words, he has a program which he is willing to advocate. Actually,
he has presented his program in writing. His preliminary discussion with Governor Carlson and National Committee Chairman
Summerfield made it clear that it is the program that he wants to discuss with General Eisenhower.
He does not want a pat on the back; a brotherly smile; pictures taken shaking hands, with a joint press interview.

THE GROWTH of Taft's personal following involves him in the responsibility of recognizing their claims to his leadership. They do not object to Eisenhower; they are adamant that Thomas E. Dewey and Paul Hoffman should not be paid off for getting Eisenhower his nomination. They are prepared to admit that Eisenhower could have got it without Dewey or Hoffman, but television, more than any other instrument, has created a devil-symbolism concerning these two men.

Taft cannot allay this feeling.
Even were he to go whistle-stop campaigning, he could not quiet
the opposition to Dewey and Hoffman. In fact, he might even accelerate the emotionalism which this opposition is stimulating. Therefore, he must ask General Eisenhower what his intentions are concerning these two men.

This goes deeper than emotionalism, however. The office of Secretary of State has grown to be the second most powerful in the government. For several years, the Republican party has fought Dean
Acheson and his policies. Active Republican partisans have accustomed their minds to this opposition. Should it be General Eisenhower's intention to make either Thomas E. Dewey or Paul Hoffman his Secretary of State, the opposition would be so intense that an effort might be made to block confirmation by the Senate.

Taft has now come into the campaign in full support of General Eisenhower. Their agreement is now complete. Those who have tried to separate the two men have failed. Those who have accepted Senator Taft's leadership will now support General Eisenhower.

Now 'til Christmas

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Whatever 1953
may bring, a swelling chorus of manufacturers sings of growing cheer between now and Christmas.

That makes the job outlook rosy.
And it might even be good news
for stockholders—who'll have to share their joy, however, with the tax collector.

Industrial production totals are
snapping back fast from the sum-
mer slump caused by the steel
strike, vacations and abominable
weather.

Steel output is almost back to
pre-strike levels. Orders for raw
steel will keep the mills busy well
into next year. Demand for most
finished steel products is expected
to hold up until the end of the
year at least.

The auto industry expects to
have its biggest week of the year
next week, when it plans to turn
out 98,822 cars and 25,859 trucks.

Although the great post-Korean
expansion of industrial plant and
equipment is scheduled to slough
off next year, builders report con-
tracts for heavy construction projects are still running ahead of a
year ago.

And they look for public construction—schools, roads, hospitals
and the like—to step up as the
industrial expansion boom tapers
off.

their construction boom—greatest
in history—is past its prime. Home
building this year probably will
drop below 1,200,000, and the federal reserve will be required by
law to drop its curbs on easy terms
of home mortgages. Many expect
the curbs to be dropped later this
month.

But many home builders are
still confident that for several
homes will keep building totals at
year.

Orders for capital goods—tools
and machinery, airplanes and rail-

road equipment — are coming in satisfactory volume, many manufacturers report. And those doing a defense job expect military orders for the hard goods of war to keep flowing in good volume this year and next.

Adult Schools

America must stop putting all
its educational eggs in one basket.
It must pay attention to its adults
as well as its children in the matter of schooling.

This is the conclusion of Henry
Klein, a director of the Juntio Adult School, after a month's survey of adult education in Denmark, Sweden and England.

Americans are credit-happy, he believes, and take courses to get a certificate or a diploma, without much thought of the intangible benefits of knowledge.

In adult schools in Denmark and Sweden which he visited he found students who took no notes, had no home work, and received no diplomas.

Sweden, Klein found, stresses the educational technique known as the study circle. In small discussion groups, containing from 10 to 20
members, subjects of common interest are studied after a short presentation by one of the group.
There is no teacher.

The lecture method of teaching might well be tossed out in certain subjects, Klein believes, and the study-circle method used, for greater student participation.

England has developed short-term residential colleges as part of its plan to meet the demand for adult education. It now has about 15 of these colleges, which offer a variety of subjects. Each weekend is given over to a different subject.

The important thing, Klein says,
is that 30 to 40 adult students in a weekend course spend two days living with other people from whom they learn.

In A Small Cemetery

("Burial of Gertrude Lawrence, famed

This is a small cemetery in a small town;
Broadway is in a world apart from it. . . .
It has been untouched by the glamorous, Known no beat or measure of the "big time";

The stones here are simple granite ones
Above plain people who live simple lives. . .
Eben Jones. . . Cynthia Walden. . . Newton
Smith. . .

Storekeepers, farmers, farmers' housewives,
Doctors, schoolteachers, dairymen, mill workers

People never in the headlines or news. . .
Folks who never knew the flash of bright lights,

The tumult of London, New York, Paris.

A little corner in Upton, village of 1,800
souls. . .

Upton, among the towns of Hopedale, Fisherville, Uxbridge and Northbridge—colonial sounding places,

Not very far from Lake Quinsigamond. . .
A country of rippling streams and lily
ponds. . . .

A place of green pastures and still waters. .
A Biblical setting. "He restoreth my soul" Seems to come in the murmur of the grasses.

Sleep well here, Gertrude Lawrence. . . .
Here is the peaceful resting place,
The halcyon ending of the grand tour. . . .
The peace so seldom known to a trouper. . .
And hark!—a barefoot boy, cutting across
the field

On his way to a brook, whistles a happy
tune!

IT'S SO QUIET on Broadway you can hear a divorce suit drop. . . Judge McNally is now in big demand on Broadway as a scene cutter. . .
It was the first time in theatrical history that any producer closed a show immediately after

ing anybody or for engaging in mud slinging." . .
We hear that Eleanor says this is the most delayed clinical verdict in medical, or legal history.

Russia is putting up an awful fight against a U. N. proposal to raise its dues $1,000,000 per year, which would still leave it paying only $5,865,556 as against Uncle Sam's $17,000,000. . .
Speak of a fair split of the club dues and you are a dirty warmonger. . . Only the filthy capitalists would ever think of having the expenses divided fairly. . . Maybe Joe Stalin figures that as he is only half-heatedly a member

rise on the site of the famous Empire Theater, Broadway and Fortieth Street, Gotham. Progress is progress, but we hope that when the steam shovels start digging away the last remnants of the show place the jeers and hisses of the ghosts of John Drew, Ethel Barrymore, Henry Miller, Maude Adams and many others
will be distinctly audible.

hotels, but was the pioneer who built one of the first tourist sites there, the Spanish Village.
... When he built the Roney there wasn't a hotel
on the beach between there and the Pan-coast except the Wofford. AdlaiStevenson put his foot (the one with the patched shoe) into it in his recent jab at the American press as being a one-party (Republican) institution. . . The fact is, Adlai, that the news coverage is close to 100 per cent square, and that editorial demand for a change in Washington is due to the fact that newspaper publishers and editors add and subtract correctly, and develop a wholesome fear of cockeyed economics. . . Also they have to make up their minds. . . Ya mean ya want editors to hem and haw for months over a situation, belittle their abilities, play shy when facing an issue and say, "If I ever have to state my position I'll shoot myself."

A Harrison, N.J., church has put in a juke box on which you can press a button and get a choice of great hymns. . . At first thought this seems a little to be deplored, but on second thought, what's so wrong about it? . . . The old hymns are pretty wonderful. . . They are not sung too well in a lot of churches, and if they can be played with the old-time fervor and beauty through a mechanical device encouragement may be in order.

Gard-Vodrey Book Relives Exciting Days of Sandy and Beaver Canal

By PEARL WALKER

If you are interested in the early history of Columbiana County and its pioneers you will want to read the book, "The Sandy and Beaver Canal," just off the press. Its authors, R. Max Gard of near Lisbon and William H. Vodrey Jr. of East Liverpool, have written facts, figures, and incidents of this engineering enterprise into a colorful and fascinating story. Included are 27 illustrations and two maps.

Ohio's biggest project before the Civil War, the building of the canal is a tale of adventure and courage by a generation of builders who were not afraid to dream, to work, and to lose.

Seventy-three miles long, the canal was operated in three divisions—Eastern, from Glasgow, Beaver County, Pa., on the Ohio River, to Lockbridge, Center Township, Columbiana County, 27 miles; Middle division, Lockbridge to Kensington, 14 miles; Kensington to Bolivar, Tuscarawas County, 32 miles. There were 90 locks, 30 dams, four reservoirs, two tunnels and one aqueduct.

LOCKBRIDGE, a lost village, lay at the intersection of the canal and what is now Ohio State Route 172, the Lisbon Guilford Rd.

Dungannon is between the two tunnels, which were designated as Big and Little. Two hundred and fifty men worked night and day for four years on Big Tunnel. It was 1,060 yards long and between 17 and 18 feet high. The solid rock in the tunnel was broken through by blasting and drilling. Little Tunnel was rich in minerals. Coal mined from it was used to operate the steam engines on Big Tunnel, while the hydraulic limestone was used for lock and dam masonry. The wood aqueduct took the canal over the Tuscarawas River to join the Ohio Canal in Bolivar.

On Jan. 11, 1828, the Ohio Legislature voted in favor of incorporation.

ating the Sandy and Beaver Canal Company with headquarters in New Lisbon (Lisbon). Incorporators were Benjamin Hanna, David Beggs, Horace Potter, George McCook, James Robertson, Joseph Richardson and Elderkin Potter of Columbiana County; Christian Dearoff and Henry Laffer of Tuscarawas County, and William Christmas, William Henry, William Reynolds and Jacob Hostetter of Stark County. Mr. Hanna, the first president of the company, operated one of the largest dry goods stores in the county at that time. The store was located near Lisbon public square in what is now known as the Arter building.

THE CHARTER was a challenge to the incorporators, because it was their duty to construct the Sandy and Beaver Canal, water gateway to the west. Stock in the company had a ready sale because the people were expecting this project to improve the standard of living and increase the value of their property. It was to provide the farmer a cash outlet for his products and the local merchants with a steady supply of merchandise at a much lower transportation cost.

The greatest benefit in the eyes of most people along the line of the canal would be the safe mode of travel provided by the canal boats in comparison with the hazardous travel by stage coach and horseback riding. Robbers operated in this area.

By November, 1834, more than $200,000 worth of stock had been subscribed and paid for. The company announced an elaborate earth turning ceremony for Nov. 24 of that year. Spot selected was Jan No. 1 on the Eastern Division. This location had long been a scene of historical activity. On the cliff above it is to be seen an old cave, once used as a shelter by prehistoric man. Just above the cave is Indian Rock, used as a lookout to observe movements of enemy tribes, or pioneer white men, traveling the Tuscarora Trail below.

PEOPLE CAME for miles around to witness this ceremony. In New Lisbon (Lisbon) a tall candle gleamed in every window. Other towns along the line celebrated in a similar manner.

Two thousand one hundred and sixty men were working on the canal in Nov. 1835. The canal was a victim of the Panic of 1837 when the company suffered an empty treasury. With the revival of the canal in 1845, the boom was on again. By the end of 1847 the water was turned into the canal in the Middle Division, the Eastern Division having been in use since the previous year.

Two of the most interesting chapters in the book are those on New Lisbon (Lisbon) and Dungannon. The village of New Lisbon (changed to Lisbon in 1898) was laid out in 1803, while the new state of Ohio was being formed. The founder was Lewis Kinney. A few weeks after Columbiana County was set up, this new village became its county seat.

FIRST BOAT, The President, to arrive from Glasgow in Lisbon was on Oct. 30, 1846. It was a gala event, with the ringing of bells and firing of a cannon.

Dungannon, important point on the canal, was the scene of the first Catholic settlement in northern Ohio. It was made up of Irish families who came in 1812 to settle in the woods about eight miles southwest of New Lisbon (Lisbon). They built log cabins of felled trees. Left over sticks from the trees were used to make furniture.

Guilford was another flourishing village on the canal line and the year that the water was turned on it had nine grocery stores, four general stores, four blacksmiths shops, two wagon making shops, two copper shops, a hotel, a brickyard and a woolen mill. John Kuhl, village cabinet maker, also made "coffins to fit."

The Rochester Coal association shipped the first coal from Eastern Ohio to city markets by way of the canal from a dock near East Rochester.

Last boat to pass through the Big Tunnel was the Hibernian in the late spring of 1852. It was piloted by Capt. E. L. Straughn, and owned by Ad Haldeman and William Burgett, all of Hanoverton. This village was a favorite stop-over for the boats. More than 40,000 bushels of wheat were shipped from Hanoverton alone in one year.

The ten years between 1837 and Clarkson was deputy commander of Task Force 3, which conducted tests at Eniwetok last year. The new tests will be carried out in deep secrecy, with only official U. S. observers and task force personnel present.

1847 saw the ebbing of the canal era and the rise of the railroad. The Sandy and Beaver Canal was marked for failure by the birth of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad, which began operation March 4, 1852.

This book, dedicated to Attorney William H. Vodrey, Sr., of East Liverpool, is on sale with Max Gard, Route 30, five miles east of Hanoverton.

Identify 67 Casualties

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department today identified 67 Korean War casualties in a new list (No. 649) that reported 16 killed, 46 wounded, two missing and three injured.

Check your refrigerator door to see if it is tightly sealed by means of rubber gaskets to keep cold air in and warm air out.

Blood Tests Seek To Pick Child's Father

SIoux CITY, Ia. (AP)—City bacteriologist Thomas Corothers said today he hopes to determine the blood type of the mother of a 5-year-old boy in order to determine which of two men, both of whom claim the child, is the father.

The mother, Mrs. Violet Phillips, 24, was killed in an auto accident last month.

The two men, Wilbur Johnson and Glenn H. Phillips, took blood tests Saturday which proved inconclusive. Phillips has Type A blood, the same as the boy. Johnson has Type O. Either man could have been the father if the mother had Type A blood, Corothers said.

Corothers said he hoped to find the mother's blood type at a Sioux City hospital where she had undergone two operations and given birth to the boy.

Mrs. Phillips formerly was married to Johnson. She sued for divorce in December, 1946, and was granted a decree in April, 1947. She lived with Johnson for several months before the decree was granted and at the same time worked as a housekeeper in Phillips' home.

The boy was born in August, 1947, with Johnson listed as the father. The mother married Phillips in November, 1948, and after her death Phillips sued for the custody of the child, claiming he was the father.

Held For Killing Wife, Mother Of 13 Children

RENSSELAER, Ind. (AP)—A railroad section hand was held today on a preliminary charge of murdering his wife, the mother of 13 children.

State police said the shooting occurred after John DeYoung, 51, came home from a fishing trip early Sunday and found himself locked out.

His wife Susie, 48, was shot at the front door, and their daughter Violet, 20, was wounded critically.

The gunfire awakened nine children asleep upstairs in the house at Virgie, 15 miles northwest of Rensselaer.

Officials are trying to find a way to keep the 10 unmarried children together. The youngest is 3.

Hilda Phillips, Atlee Swartz Exchange Vows In Damascus

Rings and vows were exchanged by Hilda Fay Phillips and Atlee Dean Swartz at their marriage Saturday evening in the Damascus Friends Church. Officiating in the double-ring ceremony was Rev. Robert E. Mosher, church pastor.

Many friends witnessed the wedding of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Phillips of RD 1, Salem, and the son of Mrs. Mable Swartz of Canfield.

Nuptial melodies were sung by Rev. Howard Moore of the East

Goshen Friends Church. As the couple knelt during the service, he sang "Lord Bless This Hour." Miss Helen Steer, organist, played the prelude music and foretold the coming of the bride party with the traditional marches.

Palms, ferns and white gladioli formed the background setting.

Wears Satin Gown
The bride's lovely gown was fashioned of white embroidered Swiss organdy over white satin. The bodice was buttoned down the back and the neckline was cut in sweetheart style. The wide ruffle on the embroidered overskirt cascaded into a deep ruffled train. The bride wore the groom's gift of pearls on a dearest white gladioli in her bouquet. A tiara of lace held in place her nylon tulle veil.

Coral rose net over taffeta was the costume worn by Miss Barbara Powell, maid of honor. Both Misses Jo Ann and Carol Lee Phillips, bridesmaids, were gowned in winter pink net over taffeta. The strapless gowns were designed with stoles and each attendant wore gladioli in their arm bouquets.

Kendra Phillips was the flower girl. Her aqua organdy gown was over satin and she carried flower petals in a basket. The bride's attendants were her nieces.

Dean Santee was best man. Donald Swartz, brother of the groom, and Dale Maleman were ushers.

The bride's mother was costumed in black with a corsage of orchid-colored gladioli. Mrs. Swartz chose blue with black accessories. Her corsage was yellow gladioli.

Reception In Church
A double-ring wedding cake centered the refreshment table at the reception in the church basement. The table was beautifully appointed with a linen cloth and with greenery arranged with gladioli.

The couple greeted their guests. Hostesses were Mrs. William Carner, Miss Olive Spencer and Mrs. Frank Mitchell of Damascus; Mrs. Elizabeth Hawkins and Miss Margaret Birchak of Salem; Miss Anna Magda, Mrs. Perry Hanney and Mrs. Robert Pettit of Alliance. Miss Helen Pettit of Alliance registered the guests.

For travelling to Washington, D.C., and over the Skyline Drive, the new Mrs. Swartz chose a gray suit with black accessories and a gladioli corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The bride was employed at the Strong Manufacturing Co. in Sebring. Her husband is a turret lathe operator in the Deming Co. here. They will make their home in Damascus. She graduated from Goshen School and he attended school in Buffalo.

The rehearsal dinner Friday evening was given by the bride's sister, Mrs. Thomas Powell. Gifts were presented all the attendants.

Miss Julia Peterkin, community advisor and camp adviser on the Girl Scout national staff will be in Salem this Thursday and Friday as a guest of the Salem Girl Scout Council.

Miss Peterkin represents the national organization as a traveling consultant to Girl Scout councils in Region IV, which includes the states of Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia.

When members of the Salem Girl Scout Council meet for their picnic supper Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at Camp Merrydale, Miss Peterkin will speak to the group, their husbands and guests.

Miss Peterkin is interested in girl scouting "because of the important role it is playing in preparing girls for democratic citizenship in their communities, country and world."

In her home town of Parkersburg, W. Va., Miss Peterkin has served as leader of Brownie and Intermediate Girl Scout troops; unit leader in day and establishments camps; member of the troop camp committee; member and president of the Girl Scout Council. She has been a member of the national staff in Region IV since 1944.

Miss Peterkin is a graduate of Sweet Briar College and belongs to its alumnae association. She also is a member of the American Camping Association, American Youth Hostels, Friends of the Land, Junior League of Parkersburg, National Association of Girl Scout Executives, and National Audubon Society.

Perry Indians Gather For 15th Anniversary

The 15th anniversary meeting of the Perry Indians, a group of men and women who grew up in the Perry Street area, took place Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert William Lieder on S. Union Ave.

In connection with the reunion a shower was held for Paul Myers and Kay Johnston who will be married Sept. 20 in the First Friends Church. Mr. Lieder will be an usher at the wedding.

Assisting with the party were Mr. and Mrs. John F. Myers. Reminiscing and games entertained with prizes going to Saul Metz and Miss Pat Yengling.

O.E.S. Women Attend Meeting In Alliance

Mrs. R. W. Broomall, Mrs. Cecil Kerr, and Mrs. Arthur Johnston attended the meeting for District 13 line officers of the Eastern Star Saturday at the Alliance Masonic Temple. Mrs. Johnston is secretary of District 13.

Guests were the worthy grand matron of Ohio, Mrs. Marguerite Kennerdell of Cleveland, and deputy grand matron of District 13, Mrs. Lester Kettering of Canton. The next meeting of district line officers will be Oct. 11.

Mrs. Israel Hostess To December Committee

Wednesday was a lovely day for the picnic and outing of the December Committee of the Presbyterian Women's Association at the home of Mrs. Frederick Israel in Damascus.

The program, which tied in with the summer medical mission offering, was presented by Mrs. Wayne Helm, Mrs. Theodore Jewell and Mrs. Waldo McConnell. The next meeting Oct. 1 will be at the home of Mrs. Ernest Ashley on the Albany Rd.

Mrs. Celia Greenisen Hostess To Society

Mrs. Celia Greenisen of E. Third St. was hostess to the Alice Dennig Missionary Society of the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church when they met Friday evening for their regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. William Rance was leader of the topic, "The Book And Its Mission." A guest, Miss Jessie Thomas, who was a missionary in India for 35 years, gave an interesting talk of her work there. Miss Thomas is now retired and resides in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Mrs. J. A. Fehr conducted the thank offering service. The meeting closed with the missionary benediction.

The next meeting will be Oct. 10, at the home of Mrs. Charles Davidson, hostess, with Mrs. Albert Ryser leader.

DEMOCRATS TO MEET
Salem Women's Democratic Club will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Memorial Building. Mrs. Albert Sanderson is club president.

THE PUMP AND THE OPENED-UP, airy sandal dominate fall and winter shoes. Classic brown suede pump (left) has strip of beige calf swirled from heel to mid-vamp. This is a slender, elegant shoe by Andrew Geller. Open sandals by Jerro in gold kid leather (upper center) are simply two wide strips with elasticated inserts for smooth, clinging fit. Sling pump (center) has heel with novel Florentine tooling for new back interest. This is a Herbert Levine design.

Cuffed pump (lower center) is in aniline-tanned calf with gleaming, translucent finish. These Newton Elkin pumps are ideal for suit wear. Banded sandal by I. Miller (upper right) is in brown suede for dressy daytime wear. Butterscotch calf (lower right) is used in these sling-back shoes with medium heel and lacing in dark brown leather. Though these are for street wear, they offer a delicate, airy look for lightweight woollens.

"Change of Life Made Me Scream at My Husband"
Writes Mrs. M. Uebelacker of Mt. Vernon, N. Y. "Now I don't suffer from 'hot flashes' and nervousness—feel fine," she adds. "If you, too, are suffering from the irritable, restless feelings and hot flashes of change of life—listen! In tests by doctors Lydia Pinkham's Compound and Tablets gave relief of such functionally-caused distress in 83% and 80% (respectively) of the cases! Complete or striking relief!"

Yes! Research has proved these medicines thoroughly modern in the relief they give from those nervous, "out of sorts" feelings of mid-life "change." Get Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound or new Tablets with added iron! (Wonderful, too, for functional pains of monthly menstrual periods.) It acts through sympathetic nervous system to relieve distress of "heat waves!"

Miss Vern Woodford Becomes Bride Of Howard H. Price

It is a secret where Vern Woodford and Howard Hudson Price are honeymooning but they were married Saturday at 7:30 o'clock in the Hough Avenue Baptist Church in Cleveland.

The bride, who has made her home in Salem for the past year, is the daughter of Mrs. Perry Lester Woodford of Cleveland. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Price, also of Cleveland.

Rev. Donald MacDonald, church pastor, performed the ceremony and Rev. Perry L. Woodford of Ithaca, Mich., brother of the bride, assisted in the ceremony. Another brother, Marion Woodford, escorted her to the altar.

Mrs. Howard H. Price

Twenty-eight tapers in flower-trimmed candelabra lighted the chancel setting enhanced with ferns and white gladioli. White chrysanthemums filled the altar.

Gowned in White Satin

The attractive bride, gowning in white satin, was attended by bridesmaids costumed in bright gold, bronze and green.

Scallops of chantilly lace edged the drop-shoulder neckline of the bride's gown. The sleeves were of lace and the lace was repeated in panels in the fully fashioned skirt. Her floorlength veil of illusion was held in place by a cap of lace.

White roses, gladioli and feather mums combined in her bouquet. The lavalier she wore was her mother's.

Mrs. James Pasco of E. Sixth St. was her sister's matron of honor in a richly-colored gown of bright gold taffeta with a lace cape, gloves and feather hat in matching gold. Her flowers were bronze mums in shower effect.

Bronze taffeta, patterned after Mrs. Pasco's gown, was used to fashion the gowns of the four bridesmaids, Miss June VonKael of Beloit, Mrs. Anthony Macias, Mrs. Joseph Foster Jr. and Mrs. James Maxwell of Cleveland. Each carried yellow mums.

Miss Beverly Pasco, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid in green taffeta and her accessories were nearly identical with those of the other attendants.

Cleveland Best Man

James Maxwell of Cleveland was best man. Ushers were Robert Buhrow, James Sinclair and Charles Meyers of Cleveland and Don Woodford of Akron, brother of the bride.

A paradise flower from Hawaii complemented the champagne chantilly lace worn by Mrs. Woodford and the pink lace costume of Mrs. Price.

The Sorority Club at East 100th St. in Cleveland was the scene of the reception where the newlyweds greeted more than 200 guests. Gardenias floated in a fountain on the refreshment table and a heart-shaped, four-tiered wedding cake was between arrangements of yellow and white flowers.

After Mr. and Mrs. Price return from their honeymoon Sept. 25, they will reside at 1719 E. 116th Place in Cleveland.

The groom has just completed 21 months service in the Army. His bride has been employed in the offices of Metzger, McCorkhill and Metzger for the past year.

DEAF HEAR AGAIN WITH CLARITY, EASE

CHICAGO (Special)—New hope for the 15 million persons in the United States who are hard of hearing was voiced by a noted Chicago acoustical scientist.

He demonstrated how the deaf can hear again with a clarity and ease they never dreamed possible.

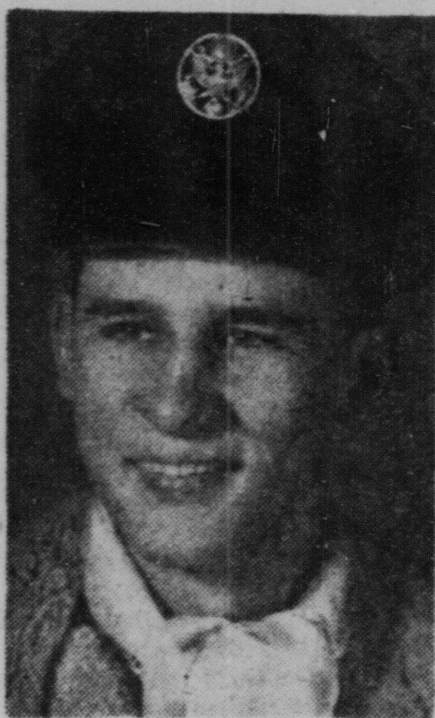

According to this electronic engineer, Mr. Sam Posen, "the longer a hearing loss is neglected, the harder it is to recapture certain speech sounds and understand them."

To acquaint the hard of hearing readers of this paper with what may be done to help the deaf hear again with miraculous clarity, full authoritative details about deafness and how to overcome it are described in an informative, new illustrated booklet.

If interested for yourself or a friend, write—

BENEATH that big broad bonnet is the reason for this headline.

It's a four-barreled automatic carburetor—Airpower by name—which has a way of gulping in what the dictionary defines as "a sudden blast of wind" when extra power is needed.

And the way this gorgeous performer can step out as this occurs is something you'll always remember.

For ordinary driving, two barrels are all you need — and two barrels are all that are working. They give you an extra thrifty flow of fuel for round-town cruising.

When extra power is wanted in a hurry—the "reserves" swing into action—feeding extra fuel and extra air in an ever-thrifty mixture, which delivers the greatest horsepower in Buick history.

This is one of many distinctions that endear ROADMASTERS to fine-car owners.

It's a car as rich in finish as it is in power—a car of expansive room—restful silence—level in gait—beautifully responsive to your mood and will.

Son Hunts Father 10 Years, Finds Him Dead

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Sgt. Kenneth E. Micken searched for his father for 10 years and found him a day late—dead in a traffic accident.

The father, 61-year-old Matthew Micken, had been a commercial fisherman in Tampa for 20 years. Sgt. Micken, stationed at MacDill Air Force Base here since February, said he was an ardent sports fisherman and probably had been near his father many times without realizing it.

Micken was killed Friday night. The son read about it the next morning in a newspaper, checked with authorities and found the dead man was the father who left his family in Superior, Wis., more than 25 years ago.

Radio, TV Notebook

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK (AP)—Simultaneously with the end of daylight saving a week from Sunday, MBS radio is overhauling its schedule and restoring the MGM movie-produced programs to the full roster of 10.

Five of these programs—Woman of the Year, Black Museum, Musical Comedy Theater, Modern Casanova and Maisie, Monday through Friday in that order—have been off for the summer. The others—Crime Does Not Pay, Dr. Kildare, Hardy Family, Gracie Fields and Theater of the Air, Monday, through Saturday except Wednesday—stayed on and will continue into the winter, making the second season for the entire group.

Among other changes will be the transfer of the Reporters' Roundup interview series from Thursday to Monday and the Family Theater to a half-hour earlier on Wednesday. This is part of a move to clear 9:30, Monday through Friday, to make way for a new Eugene Baird show. She is to be a singing disc jockey. John J. Anthony soon is to return to his Sunday night time.

On the television scene: Cavalcade of Stars, Dumont's Friday night variety show, is closing with the broadcast of Sept. 26. The sponsor is dropping the time. The program has been going for three years. Down You Go and Twenty Questions, two quiz shows now earlier in the evening, will take over the time.

Assignments for Herman Hickman, former Yale football coach signed by NBC as a television personality, have been fixed. He will have a Friday evening program, not necessarily sports, in which he will treat on a wide range of themes. During the football season he will do a 15-minute windup program each Saturday after the games.

Bishop Fulton J. Sheen returns to Dumont Nov. 18, starting the second season of his "Life Is Worth Living."

The status of One Man's Family on NBC-TV for the new season has not been determined.

Coming back on CBS tonight: Radio-8 Suspense, beginning its eleventh year with Agnes Moorehead in her sixth portrayal of "Sorry Wrong Number." Television — EDT Lucille and Desi Arnaz resume their filmed "I Love Lucy."

Guitarist Shot By Man Hating Hill-Billy Music

CINCINNATI (AP)—A 37-year-old guitarist fell badly wounded with five bullet wounds Saturday night—the victim of a man who hated hill-billy music.

Held by suburban St. Bernard police on an open charge was Harry P. Alvin, 46, of Cincinnati and Madison, Ind.

The guitarist, Abby Southerland, 37, was listed in critical condition at Good Samaritan Hospital.

Alvin told police he intended to hit Southerland's guitar partner, Andrew Pottinger, because, he claimed, Pottinger had been paying too much attention to his wife, Mrs. Jeanette Alvin, 42, Madison.

He said he heard the hill-billy music as soon as he entered the tavern where the two guitarists were playing and became enraged. His jealousy of Pottinger had caused him to hate that kind of music, he said.

"I just started firing in the general direction of the two guitarists. I fired until the gun was empty."

Then Alvin added, "I'm sorry I shot the wrong man."

Ike, Adlai Say Religion Vital To Them

BOSTON (AP)—Both major candidates for president say they would lean to religion to help them face the responsibilities of the presidency.

The views of Gov. Adlai Stevenson and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower on the importance of religion will appear in the Sept. 21 issue of Episcopal Churchnews, a weekly published in Richmond, Va.

The statements were released yesterday by Maurice E. Bennett Jr., publisher of the magazine, while attending the 57th triennial General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Boston.

Eisenhower's statement said: "This is what I found out about religion: It gives you courage to make the decisions you must make in a crisis, and then the confidence to leave the result to higher power. Only by trust in oneself and trust in God can a man carrying responsibility find repose."

The Stevenson statement said: "The burdens attached to the office of President of the United States are enormous. I know that those responsibilities are so far beyond the limits of human wisdom and strength that, if I am called upon to bear them, I should be utterly dependent on the sustaining power of God as the source of truth and wisdom in the endless hours of uncertainty and anxiety."

The candidates had been asked how they would expect their religious beliefs to influence their acts if elected.

OFFICE GIRLS' SCHOOL

Balancing the books doesn't mean keeping accounts straight. It's for improving the posture.

ANYONE visiting the Westinghouse company in East Pittsburgh, Pa., this fall may think he is inside the make-up department of a Hollywood movie studio or else in a fashionable model agency. But, he will really be watching the firm's "Self-Improvement and Personality School" where 50 fortunate girls spend 10 weeks in learning how to lose weight, walk properly, apply make-up correctly and wear the ensemble that suits them. The school is conducted by Victoria Burdell, Pittsburgh fashion school operator, with approval of the firm. Girls use a system of points to check their fashion rating. They get two points for plain hat with a veil (one without a veil), one point for a plain dress, one point for gloves, etc., with the idea of keeping points low as possible. School is designed to help its girls develop pleasing personalities.

"Slimnastics," or reducing program, includes hip exercises.

Damp Basements Common In Newly Constructed Houses

"Of all the old homes in the United States—30 years or more in age—10 per cent have wet cellars. Of the millions of newer homes completed since 1945, an estimated 80 per cent have wet or damp cellars."

That is the statement of a professional waterproofer. So if you have a moisture problem in your basement, you don't have to feel lonesome.

However, that 80 per cent estimate for the new houses may be high, unless you count new foundations that have not had time to dry out—unless you count all of the basement windows because of improper grading, and all of the excessive condensation encountered before new home owners learn the importance of ventilation and get around to wrapping water pipes to keep them from sweating and dripping in hot weather.

But in view of the economy of cinder block or concrete block construction and the prevalence of such types of basement walls, there is little doubt that cellar dampness problems have increased greatly. Blocks admittedly are more porous than carefully mixed, poured concrete.

LETTERS to this department indicate clearly that the wet basement problem is the most common in all house ailments. One woman is so discouraged by the odor of mildew in one corner of her house that she writes to ask if she should sell the house and buy another. Harrison Todd, a professional waterproofer of Sacramento, Calif., writes to say that he has never seen a basement that could not be completely waterproofed. Although an effective sealing of a basement on the inside is generally considered to be next to impossible when free water is flowing in, Todd recently waterproofed a basement where water was coming in at a rate of five gallons per minute. Working 37 feet underground against a water pressure of 15 pounds to the square inch, he reports having sealed the basement so effectively that "this job now has dust on the floor."

Todd, like other successful waterproofer, uses no patent-medicine type of cure-all that is supposed to keep a cellar dry after the magic stuff is painted on with a paint brush. So many false claims have been made for such short-cut products that in some areas they have been withdrawn from the market—local dealers refusing to have any part in misleading harassed home owners.

RESEARCH ENGINEERS of the Housing and Home Finance Agency in Washington have made extensive tests of various basement water-proofing methods. Joseph H. Orandorff, director of the division of housing research, says: "We doubt that there is any cure-all which will guarantee a dry basement when brushed or troweled on the interior face of a basement wall. Tests of many of these highly advertised products have been made at the National Bureau of Standards. The basic ingredient of most of them is Portland cement and few, if any, show any marked superiority in preventing dampness over Portland cement."

The products tested included clay asphalt emulsions, bituminous solutions, finely ground iron, calcium chloride, sodium silicate, stearates, oleates, paraffin and various oils, paints and varnishes. They were tested against plain lean concrete mixtures.

The report on the tests said: "It is not a difficult matter to make a concrete that is impermeable to water under heads as great as 20 pounds per square inch. Such pressures exceed those encountered in by far the greater majority of concrete structures.

EVEN THOUGH they seem hopelessly dilapidated, old farm buildings often can be given new life by the use of modern materials. These pictures tell the story of the rejuvenation of a 70-year-old barn near Monica, Ill. Before remodeling, it appeared ready to fall to pieces. The framing lumber was still sound, however, so the owner had the building straightened. He then covered the sidewalls with large sheets of asbestos-cement board. Because asbestos board is fireproof, rotproof and termite-proof, the barn is ready for another lifetime of service—and this time no painting will be needed for preservation.

Hence, since concrete can be so made without the use of water-proofings, they would seem to be needless."

THERE WAS ONE waterproofing admixture that won an exception in the government tests—"The ammoniacal copper solution of cellulose seems to be the only distinctly different new material," the report states.

This is a compound that Todd of Sacramento uses. "It will stick to almost any surface except new wood," he says, "but gives better results on brick, concrete, plaster, stucco and pumice brick surfaces."

And Todd uses calcium chloride to speed the setting of his Portland cement mixtures. He mixes a pound of these crystals in a gallon of water "putting them in a jug, filling the jug with water and shaking it until all crystals are dissolved."

"It costs 5½ cents per gallon," he says, "compared with other silicate of soda and chlorine quick-setters, which cost $2 or $3 per gallon."

The compressive strength of concrete in one day of setting is rated as 170 per cent greater when a 2 per cent addition of calcium chloride is made.

Maintenance Loans Hit Record High
Home maintenance and repair loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration under its Title I program leaped to a record high of $450,390,159 for the first six months of 1952. This compares to $304,947,339 for a similar period in 1951, the previous record year.

The volume of Title I loans is taken as an indication of the total amount of money spent annually for home modernization. This is estimated at $3,000,000,000 for last year.

The FHA insures loans for both materials and labor. For example, money can be borrowed to buy asphalt shingles for reroofing and to pay for application. Labor costs are kept at a minimum because asphalt shingles can be applied over most old roofing.

Start Masonry Wall Below Frost Line

In building a garden wall or other structures, concrete and cinder blocks must be laid on a solid footing of concrete extending well below the frost line. There is danger of the wall buckling or heaving because of frost if this is not done.

Clean Chimney Each Year, Is Advice

Clean out your chimney while the weather's warm, advises the National Fire Protection Association.

A chimney should be cleaned every year, the NFPA says. If work is done during the warm months, it won't be necessary to shut off the heat later for an emergency job.

Dirty chimneys are dangerous because they can shoot sparks out on rooftops. To lessen the danger, the NFPA recommends that fire-resistant roofing such as asphalt shingles always be used.

Fire-resistant roofing is considered necessary even when a chimney is in perfect condition. Sparks from other sources—other chimneys and all kinds of outdoor fires—are a constant hazard. Wind-blown sparks can be carried hundreds of yards and still be burning when they land.

How To Fix It

Q—What is the best height for stairway risers?—C. H.

A—It depends upon the total rise of the stairway, but best practice calls for risers slightly over seven inches high.

Six Years Ago we said ...

1. Soft water is not a luxury . . . It is a convenience necessary to every home. Anyone who subscribes to our soft water service will find that the savings are greater than the cost.
2. Soft water service is more economical, and much less troublesome, than owning your own softener.

Today, six years later, the above two statements are doubly true. Many cleaning agents (soaps, etc.) have greatly increased in price . . . Permanent type softeners are twice as expensive.

Ventilate New Homes In 'Drying Out' Period

Adequate ventilation is a means of minimizing condensation, which may be especially damaging in new homes, for in them vapor condensation reaches its maximum.

When homes are built, tons of water go into materials such as concrete, cement, plaster, wall-paper paste, tile work and even some kinds of paint. This water comes out of the house by evaporation, which consequently develops air of a higher moisture content than normal.

The home owner must see to it that ventilation is provided to bring the drying-out process to its conclusion as steadily as possible, by venting off moisture-laden air.

Do not try to accelerate this process unduly by creating extremely high heating temperatures in winter, for it will only tend to create an uneven drying which will exaggerate the effects of normal shrinkage, warns the National Association of Home Builders.

In the case of a tight-fitting floor, be patient—don't be too quick to plane the edge. Wait for warmer weather, when the door has dried down to normal.

The average door is properly manufactured, mortised and tenoned. Twisting or warping are beyond control and can happen to any door. Cracks appearing at door-casing joints, and elsewhere, can be filled readily, and when the home is redecorated the owner will have little difficulty in covering them so that they are no longer noticeable.

Outside doors are more subject to severe conditions. The reason: heat inside and cold outside. They have a tendency to twist or pull toward the heat, with the lock holding. No matter what manufacturer makes the door, the same problems appear—they are obviously beyond the builder's control. Even though windows are weatherstripped, cold panes can set up a current of cool air which will move through the room. Often this cool air current may feel as if it is coming from the outside and causes the occupants to believe there is leakage around the windows.

Actually, it is caused by the chilling of the air against the window, which then sets the air in motion. Storm sash will minimize this and condensation, which is possibly the most disturbing factor occurring in new homes.

Condensation is caused by warm, moist air coming in contact with cold surfaces. Such surfaces are windows, cellar walls and exposed pipes. Warm, moist, inside air meets them and, as if by magic, there is water—damaging water.

A perfectly dry cellar can have wet walls and floors due to condensation of moisture upon cold basement walls. The walls are colder because they are up against the earth, which has a lower temperature than the air in the basement.

Proper ventilation cuts down condensation in basements during the summer months. Windows should be closed in damp, muggy weather and opened during dry, clear weather.

If your house has attic louvers or louvers at the crawl space of the basement, do not obstruct these openings. The purpose of louvers is to ventilate your house. Keep them clear at all times and you'll come close to banishing a widely known headache.

Quakers Dumped, 44-12, By Bellaire in Opening Grid Game

Locals Drop Inaugural Tilt As Bellaire Scores Seven TD's

By SKIP GREENISEN

Bellaire Big Red, under the direction of Bud Boner, received revenge on the Salem Quakers Saturday afternoon in Bellaire Stadium when they put together three touchdowns and four other six-pointers from the ground to dump the locals, 44-12.

Playing in a 95-degree heat, both the Quakers and Big Red found the going rough in the down pouring sun but the running of Bellaire's backs and the passing of Herb Sickles were not to be denied during the two and a half hour contest which saw Bellaire score in all four quarters.

The Quakers, piloted by Ben Barret, opened the inaugural football test of the season but found the Bellaire eleven to be too much for them, their first losing opening game since the 1949 season.

The Salem eleven had a fine set of running backs against Bellaire but pass receiving and lack of power when it was most needed kept the Quakers from scoring. A weak line throughout most of the game allowed the Big Red players to break through to smother many Salem plays before they could advance over the line of scrimmage.

The locals, boasting eleven lettermen on the initial squad, had but two highlights in the entire game in the scoring department. Following a fumble by Bellaire on the opening kickoff of the contest, the Quakers needed but two plays to take a 6-0 lead when Nelson Mellinger crashed through left tackle and scampered along the sidelines for a touchdown.

Bellaire's Jim Ault took the kickoff on the Bellaire 15-yard line but the ball slipped from his fingers when he was hit on the 30-yard line and Tackle Jim Hrovatic covered the oval.

Quarterback Joe Hrovatic sent Bob Sebo over center in the opening ground play of the game but a Big Red defense racked him up two yards behind the line. Then Mellinger, the Quaker's right halfback, crashed through the left side of the line and picked up his blockers, racing down the sidelines for the 32-yard touchdown.

Jack Ference's extra point kick was wide to the right and the Quakers held a 6-0 lead, the only margin they held in the contest.

BELLAIRE NEEDED but nine plays after Salem's score to knot the count with their initial touchdown. Starting their drive on their own 42-yard line, the Big Red aggregation put together nine ground plays to romp through the Salem defense with Bob Mooney topping the 58-yard drive by plunging through right guard from the eight-yard line.

Mooney's TD deadlocked the score and End Fred Baker kept the Big Red from moving into the lead when he broke through to block an extra point placement by Sickles.

Salem then took the kickoff following the touchdown, putting the ball into play on the 23-yard line. An offside penalty on Salem moved the ball back to the Salem 18 and Sebo fumbled the ball in the backfield as he attempted to crash through the left side of the line. Jerry Conforti, Bellaire senior center, recovered the fumble from his linebacking position and the Big Red eleven was on its way to its second score.

Jim Nemec moved the ball to the 12-yard line with a plunge over left tackle, Bill Bostancic gained two yards while sweeping right end and then Sickles pitched a ten-yard pass to John Piehowicz in the end zone, catching the Quaker's defensive unit flat-footed.

Sickles attempt for the extra point was again blocked as Quarterback Hrovatic broke through to deflect the oval, keeping the score at 12-6, Bellaire.

The two teams staged single drives before the first quarter came to a close, Bellaire punting to the Quakers. Salem lost the ball on downs following the last score by the Bonermen.

THE QUAKERS FOUND the second quarter rough going as they had possession of the oval twice while Bellaire scored their third touchdown with a 60-yard drive and were on their way toward another score when the half intervened.

The Big Red touchdown came midway in the quarter, the highlight of the drive being a 43-yard pass from Sickles to Piehowicz which moved the ball to the five-yard line.

The Quakers' defensive unit showed its first good output when they held the Big Red team for three plays before Nemec edged across the goal line. Nemec hit the center for three yards on the first down but two other center plunges by Sickles and Nemec gained them nothing as the Salem eleven put up a strong defense. However, Nemec plunged the ball just over the goal, making the score, Bellaire 19, Salem 6, after Sickles' placement was successful.

Forced to punt early in the third quarter after receiving the kickoff, the Quakers gained possession of the ball when Mooney touched the oval as he allowed the punt to roll and Ference, down field following the punt, covered the ball, giving the locals a first down on the Bellaire 44-yard line.

However, clipping and holding penalties found the Quakers losing ground which they had gained and they were forced to pass. Hrovatic, in attempting to hit Bill Crookston with a long heave, had the pass intercepted by Mooney, which started the Big Red toward their fourth touchdown.

John Lancione capped the Big Red 57-yard drive just eight plays after Mooney's interception when he skirted left end and dashed down the sidelines for 19 yards and the touchdown. Sickles' placement was between the uprights and Bellaire took the lead, 26-6, a 20-point margin.

Salem took the kickoff prior to the closing of the third quarter and were in the middle of a 71-yard drive to the goal line when the quarter ended. Halfback Crookston was the standout of the drive as he gained 41 of the total yardage as he was driving hard into the center of the line. He tallied the second and last touchdown for the Quakers, going over left guard from the two-yard line. Ference's kick was blocked and the Quakers were behind by a 26-12 count.

BELLAIRE TOOK CHARGE of the game after Salem's TD as they scored three times. Sophomore Quarterback Jerry Bell replaced Sickles in the lineup and pitched an end zone heave to Piehowicz covering 66 yards on the first down after the kickoff. Sickles' placement was again blocked.

Following an exchange of the ball by fumbles, Bellaire drove 34 yards for their second tally of the quarter, Bostancic driving over from the one-yard stripe. The placement was blocked by Salem's John Todd.

After the kickoff, Hrovatic took to the air with passing but Bill Peck intercepted near mid-field and the Big Red had a first down on the Salem 44-yard line. Four plays later Dick Campbell took a pass from Bell in the end zone for Bellaire's final tally of the game. A plunge for the extra point was smothered and the game ended shortly after the kickoff.

Of the seven passes attempted by Bellaire quarterbacks, five were complete for a total of 109 yards while Salem completed four of ten throws for gainage of 51 yards.

The afternoon tilt, witnessed by nearly 6,000 football fans, saw Bellaire out gain the Quakers by a large margin. Bellaire reeled off 238 yards on the ground while losing just 11 yards. Salem managed only 132 yards on the ground but lost 23 yards. The Big Red had a grand total of 347 yards gained while the Quakers were allowed just 183 yards.

Next week the locals will again trek out of town to face the Ravens Ravens Friday night at Ravenna. The Quakers hold three straight victories over the Ravens, winning last year, 33-20, on the local turf at Reilly Stadium.

Lopat's Jinx On Indians Is Back

Steady Eddie Downs Cleveland Nine, 7-1

CLEVELAND (AP)—Southpaw Eddie Lopat's jinx on Cleveland's Indians was supposed to have ended last summer, but Casey Stengel doubted it, and today a sad Tribe joined Casey in the doubt.

For steady Eddie, the chunky blond with the tantalizing assortment of "junk" pitches, won the big one for the New York Yankees here Sunday, 7-1. It gave him a 35-9 lifetime mark against Cleveland.

And it left Cleveland 2½ games back of the league-leading Yanks, with only the hope the world champs would bog down in their last 11 games.

Yankee Manager Stengel could not conceal his elation over Lopat's victory nor over his selection of the sly lefty to start.

"He's always gone good against your big guys," Stengel said. "When you look at this guy's record against Cleveland, how can ya do anything but start him?"

That the Tribe has been beating southpaws regularly and that a black cat was supposed to have broken the Lopat jinx last season were things Casey ignored. One June night last season a fan jumped out of the right field stands, ran to the mound and dropped a black cat beside the surprised Lopat who was warming up. Steady Eddie had an 8-0 record for the season and hadn't lost to Cleveland since 1949, but he lasted only two innings, gave up six runs and lost to Mike Garcia 8-2.

Since then and until yesterday Lopat had won four and lost three against the Tribe — certainly not the record of a true hexer.

But, with a big assist from Allie Reynolds, the southpaw had his revenge Sunday on the Tribe and Garcia, whose 30 consecutive scoreless inning string ended in a four-run rally Lopat started with a double—his first extra base hit of the year.

Lopat's slow stuff not only teased Indian sluggers, but he frustrated the majors' biggest crowd of the year — 73,609 pennant-hungry fans — by doing his best pitching after putting runners on base.

"We had plenty of opportunities to win, but we couldn't take advantage of them," said Cleveland Manager Al Lopez. "Just couldn't seem to get that big hit."

"We're still not out of this," Lopez added—a statement with which Stengel agreed by refusing to call his Yankees in and insisting, "It's a long time yet, before the season's over."

Luke Easter took on his broad shoulders the blame for the lost opportunities Lopez mentioned. "If I'd hit, we woulda won," Luke said dejectedly.

The first two times Easter faced Lopat, he struck out. The third time he hit into a double play. Against Reynolds, his last time up, he popped after Bob Avila had singled and Larry Doby walked to start the crowd clapping for a rally. In all, he left seven runners stranded.

Fairfield Wins Initial Game, 20-12

Fairfield High School's six-man footballers captured their initial win of the season Saturday afternoon at Bowerton when they downed Bowerton High School, 20-12.

Scoring in every period but the third, the Fairfield team outclassed the Bowerton six, although the latter rallied for 12 points in the final period.

Jesse Smith was the standout for the Comets as he tallied two touchdowns, skirting right end in the first period shortly after the kickoff for a 37-yard TD and scoring a 10-yard touchdown in the second period to cap the Comets' 94-yard drive. Don Peppel, who reeled off 40 of the 94-yard drive, failed on the conversion after kicking one in the first quarter.

Bowerton capped the 40-yard drive early in the fourth quarter when Dick Host tossed a 25-yard pass to Bob Rippeth for a TD and then the home team scored its other touchdown to cut the Fairfield lead to a single point, 13-12.

However, Fairfield took the kickoff following Bowerton's score and returned it for a touchdown. Peppel received the ball on the 15-yard line and moved through the rushing Bowerton defense and into paydirt for the score. The extra point was scored on a pass play, giving the Comets a 20-12 victory.

Michigan State, Maryland, Georgia Tech, Oklahoma Are Pre-Season Poll Grid Choices

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—Two colleges which aren't eligible for their conference championships this year are among the best bets to win sectional football honors this year.

They are Michigan State, a member of the Western Conference but not eligible to win the football title until 1953, and Maryland, serving a year's suspension from Southern Conference competition.

Those two, Georgia Tech and Oklahoma were the four institutions which dominated the Associated Press pre-season poll of newspaper and radio sports experts to pick the probable leaders in each section of the United States.

Michigan State was listed in the first spot by 31 of 51 Midwestern selectors and, on the basis of five points for first place, three for second and one for third, polled a total of 171 points. Illinois with 12 firsts and 130 points topped the teams eligible for the Big Ten championship, followed by Wisconsin with six firsts and 81 points.

Notre Dame, picked first by two balloters, polled 42 points to lead the entirely independent Midwestern teams.

In Southern Conference territory, Maryland gathered 27 first place votes and 145 points. Second was Duke with four firsts and 56 points. Then came independent Virginia with 25 points and Clemson, like Maryland under suspension for violating the conference anti-bowl rule, with 22 points.

Georgia Tech collected the biggest vote of all — 39 firsts and 241 points — and nearly doubled the point total of its nearest Southern Conference rival, Tennessee. Wyoming more than doubled the next-best figure in the Skyline-Rocky Mountain area and Oklahoma wasn't far under that margin.

Tennessee's second-place figure in the Southeast, where only six of the voters picked the Vols first, was 122 points. Wyoming drew six of the eight first-place and 37 points to Utah's 15. In the Midlands, Oklahoma was named first by 32 voters for 186 points. Then came Kansas with seven firsts and 106 points and Tulsa of the Missouri Valley Conference with one first and 32 points.

In other sections the somewhat closer voting races shaped up this way:

East — Pennsylvania (10 firsts) 58 points; Holy Cross (4) 32; Princeton (1) 28, with the rest scattered widely.

Southwest — Texas Christian (11) 78; Texas (6) 63, and Southern Methodist (4) 27. Texas Tech with three firsts and 18 points was the choice of those who limited their voting to the Border Conference area.

Pacific Coast: California (9) 65; Washington State (4) 43; Southern California (4) 31, and UCLA (3) 27 drew most of the support.

Stranahan Cops Amateur Golf Crown

CHICAGO (AP)—Frank Stranahan has carved a niche for himself in the Western Golf Association's hall of fame by winning the group's amateur championship for the fourth time.

He joins such old timers as H. C. Egan and Chick Evans as the only men to make such a monopoly of the coveted Western Amateur crown.

Shortly after the turn of the century Egan won it four times and then Evans captured it eight times. Stranahan, who has won about every amateur title but the National, defeated Harvie Ward of Atlanta 3 and 2 yesterday in a scheduled 36-hole windup of the 50th meet. He did it with spectacular recovery shots.

Ward, who walloped Frank 6 and 5 for the British Amateur title last June at Prestwick, Scotland, lost the first hole when the Toledo millionaire's son holed out a 40-foot eagle 3 putt. Ward never was able to take the lead or ever square the match thereafter.

After a blistering three-under-par 68 in the morning, Stranahan finished the 34 holes in even par while Ward was four over for the distance.

Snead Wins Eastern Open Golf Crown

BALTIMORE (AP)—Sam Snead has one new golf championship, the Eastern Open, on his victory belt today and has his deadly eye leveled on another.

Snead won the Eastern Open by a margin of two strokes in his first crack at it yesterday and he has the same designs on the inaugural National Celebrities Open starting Thursday in Washington.

Besides adding another tourney championship to a list which already is close to 100, Snead is interested in another $2,400 first prize.

The Eastern Open check for that amount boosted his year's earnings to $18,441. That leaves him only $562 behind third-place Jack Burke Jr. among the leading money winners. Burke is reported to have put away his clubs for the year to concentrate on getting married.

Snead, whose devotion to the dollar is a standard joke among the pros, has been first or second in the money list since he started playing professionally in 1937.

The 38-year-old Virginian showed he was in peak form by winning the Eastern Open with a record-breaking 275. He was four strokes under the record of the past two tourneys, 13 under par for Mt. Pleasant and two in front of second-place Ed (Porky) Oliver of Lemont, Ill.

Milwaukee, Kansas City Face For Championship

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The teams that finished one-two in the regular American Association season, Milwaukee and Kansas City, face each other tonight in the first game of a best-of-seven final playoff.

Milwaukee, which won its series with third-place St. Paul in straight games, will send Gene Conley, who has an 11-4 season record, to the mound.

Opposing him will be righthander Jim Russell, who has a 5-4 regular schedule record and was the winner of one of the playoff games. Kansas City, which was second in the regular schedule finale, subdued Minneapolis, the fourth place finisher, with a substantial 10-3 whipping Sunday.

Mountaineer Field, home of West Virginia University football, was built in 1924 and formally dedicated the next year.

She tries gnawing and thawing. Still no go.

So she shoves the cake over 15-foot embankment and it cracks into pieces, letting her get at the fish. ZOO KEEPERS say bears are pretty sharp animals, and these photos of Rosie the Kodiak in the Washington zoo, Milwaukee, Wis., seem to bear them out. Ingenious Rosie solved lunch problem.

of the Policy Committee was a hopeful sign.

It was reported that some progress has been made in the soft coal, or bituminous, industry peace talks, but not enough to assure an agreement before a strike could develop. However, both sides were described as seeking to avoid a shutdown.

Lewis may meet during the day, too, or possibly tomorrow with Harry Moses, chief negotiator for the Southern Coal Producers Association.

Lewis has been talking with both men separately for some weeks. Their talks are reported to have touched on suggestions for higher wages, an increase in the 30-cent a ton welfare fund royalty payments, and plans for more regular employment among miners.

Actually, an agreement was reported to be close in the anthracite industry. Representatives of the Eastern Pennsylvania hard coal operators are to see Lewis again tomorrow. A Lewis demand for a 20-cent boost in the present 30-cent royalty is the main issue.

American oil industry. Makki has been in Germany for a month and is expected to remain in the United States about six weeks. He has been prominently identified with the Iranian oil nationalization program under which the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. was thrown out of Iran a year ago.

The other Iranian official due here is the new ambassador, Alahyar Salih, who is described as being a political follower of Mossadegh and as a man having the Premier's confidence.

What has apparently stumped American officials who have been trying to get the British and Iranians together and who have emphasized fears of a Communist takeover in Iran, is that two weeks ago in the Truman-Churchill offer they thought they had the whole situation wrapped up for settlement. In months-long talks with American and British officials, Mossadegh had indicated what seemed to be his major demands. The Truman-Churchill proposal was designed to meet those demands, according to both British and American officials.

In substance it offered legal recognition of nationalization, dropped British insistence on supply technicians to run the oil industry, and provided means for Iranian oil to begin moving soon again to world markets. In addition it offered 10 million American dollars to ease Mossadegh's financial plight.

The Premier immediately rejected this offer and summoned Parliament to formalize his statement. The only reason that the attitude here is not one of complete despair is that Mossadegh has stalled off the opening of Parliament, originally set for last Wednesday, and has otherwise indicated that he wanted to keep the door to negotiation open.

However, the expectation here now is that his rejection will be confirmed.

Ike

12-state train tour on which he has embarked, of a three-pronged attack on Democrats on the issues of Korea, corruption and communism.

Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas, one of the general's top advisers, told this reporter the Eisenhower camp is convinced by a private survey of its own that Korea tops all other issues in eight Midwestern farm states.

Carlson said voters were asked to name from a list of 10 their choice of the top issue. He said 27.4 per cent put Korea ahead of all others.

Eisenhower has accused the Truman administration of "bungling" its way into the Korean conflict. Stevenson has defended President Truman's actions.

As Eisenhower's 18-car special train rolled into the areas where Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio got strong support in his losing battle for the GOP nomination, the general's aides met with silence the announced loss of Sen. Wayne Morse, Oregon Republican, as an active campaigner.

Morse, who previously had offered to campaign vigorously for Eisenhower, said in Washington Saturday that he would sit out this campaign. He indicated that, among other things, he doesn't like Eisenhower's agreement with many of Taft's views.

Morse said yesterday that for the present, at least, he plans to vote for Eisenhower.

In a telegram to an Oregon Young Republicans' Convention at

Prineville, Ore., Morse added: "You . . . know me well enough to know I will never sacrifice my independence of judgment or my principles and convictions in connection with any issue just to please partisan politicians in the midst of a campaign."

The Young Republicans had telegraphed to Morse asking if his decision not to campaign for Eisenhower meant that Morse would not cast his ballot for the Republican nominee.

In his reply, Morse said he would not repudiate the general if Eisenhower does not "repudiate the sound Republicanism which constitutional liberals in the Republican party have been fighting for."

Carlson, who served as the trouble shooter who brought Eisenhower and Taft together in a "unity" meeting last Friday, was expected to be assigned the task of attempting to get Morse back into camp.

As an indication of the strength of the new alliance between Eisenhower and Taft, Victor A. Johnson, field director for the GOP Senatorial Campaign Committee and a paid pre-nomination worker for Taft, turned up as a staff member of this political campaign train.

Eisenhower will leave the train at St. Paul, Minn., tomorrow to fly back to New York City to speak Wednesday before the American Federation of Labor Convention. Stevenson will address the convention Sept. 22.

The Republican nominee's backers say they expect the AFL to endorse Stevenson, but as Carlson put it: "Ike will get more labor votes than any Republican ever got before."
